OKTATÁS C3LJA / AIM OF THE COURSE

Course description and objectives:

African Studies is a new subject at our University which tries to share Africa-related geographic, political, economic, business, social, cultural and technological issues. In our globalised world Africa has been struggling to find a honourable place. Amid various challenges – despite its abundant natural resources – the continent is trying to find new opportunities in order to reach a sustainable level of development. This course is designed to present the current African reality, its future prospects and development strategies.
